Lloyd George Sounds Warning That Polish Invasion Is Dangerous.

DISAGREE WITH FRENCH

Partition of Upper Silesia Is Delayed Because Allies Cannot Agree.

By United Press Leased Wire
London.—The peace of Europe is threatened by the Polish insurrection in Upper Silesia, Premier Lloyd George told Commons Friday.

"I am frightened," he declared, "at what may happen if confidence is not restored."

"The Polish invasion is a complete defiance of the treaty of Versailles," the premier declared.

"Unless stern justice is meted out immediately, it will be fatal to the peace of Europe."

Lloyd George said there was no reason why the allies should object to Germany using her forces to restore order in her own province.

"That would be simply fair play," he declared.

Disagree With French

The premier's approval of Germany's use of her force in Upper Silesia marked a grave divergence of opinion with the French.

France is on record as disapproving a German expedition into that region. She answered Berlin's proposal of such an expedition with the statement that it would be a violation of the Versailles treaty and would be considered an act of war.

The premier's war warning was received with great surprise by some members of the commons despite previous reports that the British government was considering a demand on Poland that the prevent insurgents from violating the allied regulations.

French and British leaders are believed to have disagreed over the partition of Upper Silesia. The final decision under the Versailles treaty should have been made within four weeks from the day of the plebiscite—March 20.

Poles Fear Allies

France, which has been pro Polish throughout, fears giving her protégé the larger portion of the rich industrial region. Great Britain stands out for a division according to the plebiscite which would leave the greater part of the valuable sections to Germany.

French authorities ascribed Poland's armed insurrection to a fear that the allies would permit the settlement to drag into the Germans would obtain the territory under a fait accompli.

When the supreme council adjourned it was stated that another session would be held within a short time, probably at Ostend. In view of Lloyd George's statement Friday, it was believed a formal demand might be served on the Polish government to withdraw her insurgent troops before the council date.

Violence Is Growing

Oppen, Upper Silesia.—Unrestrained terrorism in Upper Silesia was feared Friday. Polish followers of Adolf Hitler, lacking supplies and funds, are getting out of control.

This far the Poles have acted as organized military bands. If not held under control it was feared a reign of outlawry would be instituted.

A general strike of German workers became effective here following a German protest to General Lerdorf, French commandant, over "French unfairness."

Lerdorf was asked by the German plebiscite representative to tell the truth regarding Polish claims that an armistice has been arranged with the Poles retaining possession of three quarters of Upper Silesia.

"It's a swindle," Lerdorf declared. "No such armistice has been arranged."

Despite Lerdorf's denial, the Warsaw wireless repeated the claim Thursday. It was believed here that even if a general armistice has not been ordered by the French, a truce has been declared in various localities such as Krosberg.

Italians Arm Germans

Italian forces have refused to agree to a truce but have been arming German irregulars with rifles and light artillery. A force of Italians and Germans Thursday drove two thousand Poles from Rosenberg, capturing a number of machine guns in the attack.

German officials showed their anger toward the French whom they charge with unfairness toward the British.

The general strike here was believed to be an indication of the rising temper of the citizens and possibly a warning of worse difficulties to come. The city is now without gas, water or electricity.

HOUSE APPROVES BILL TO END GRAIN GAMBLING

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—The house Friday passed and sent to the senate the Trencher bill aimed to prevent gambling in grain futures. The vote was 289 to 69.

It places a tax of 20 cents a bushel on grain sold in purely speculative transactions, where the buyer and seller do not have physical possession and gives the secretary of agriculture broad powers of regulation.

HARDING IS HAPPY ON HIS LUCKY DAY

He was nominated at Chicago on Friday.

And he was inaugurated on Friday.

So much for Friday.

PERSHING NAMED CHIEF OF STAFF OF U. S. ARMIES

War Veteran to Have Complete Charge of Army in Peace and in War.

Washington.—Secretary of War Weeks Friday announced the appointment of General John J. Pershing as chief of staff of the army.

At the same time Weeks announced that Major General James G. Harbord, at present commanding the Second division, will be Pershing's executive assistant.

Pershing succeeds Major General Peyton C. March, present chief of staff. The appointment is effective July 1.

Weeks said the appointment of Pershing is in line with his recent announcement that Pershing would be given the command of a general headquarters of the army, to train all the elements of the army in time of peace and to take supreme command of the army in time of war.

Pershing's appointment, however, was a distinct surprise. The impression prevailed that the command of the general headquarters would be distinct from the chief of staff and that someone, other than Pershing would get the latter post.

SEEK MEMBERS OF AUTO THEFT RING

Milwaukee.—Wisconsin authorities Friday are endeavoring to round up additional members of the alleged whisky ring and automobile theft combination exposed in Chicago. Fifteen alleged members of the gang are being held in the Illinois city by federal officials, and additional arrests in Wisconsin are expected to be made.

The expose followed reports of thefts of local automobiles which were being disposed of in Chicago and Chicago stolen machines being sold here.

Five Kenosha men, including Albert Breakow, a deputy sheriff, three Iron Mountain, Michigan, men, one from Marinette, Wis., and six Chicagoans are being held here.

DRUNKEN CREWS "REPAIR" U. S. POSTAL AIRPLANES

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—District Attorney Clyne announced Friday that he was going to Washington Tuesday to confer with Postmaster General Hays concerning alleged inefficiency and gross waste of human life due to faulty airplanes used in the government mail service.

Clyne's announcement followed an investigation conducted by Charles Clapham, postal inspector, into charges that repair crews were often drunk and that flyers were forced to use antiquated machines.

One witness testified before Clapham that superintendents of flying fields often offered bets of 4 to 1 that planes would not reach their destinations.

Seven flyers have been killed in wrecksed machines near here recently.

He was a Lieutenant of Milton A. Dodge, oil and motion picture stock swindler, now serving five years in the house of correction.

When Dodge was in jail he could not raise enough to furnish his bond, but agreed to arrange bail for Murphy who was to go to Kansas City to raise Dodge's bail. When Murphy got out Dodge's bail was kept on going until arrested in St. Louis and returned here.

Chicago Isn't Worried Over Probe Of Beer

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Sad eyes of the nation Friday were focused upon Chicago, the oasis in the Great Volstead desert.

Oliver T. Remmers, attorney for the Anheuser-Busch Brewing company, St. Louis, put this in the headlines following his testimony before the house judiciary committee, in which he charged real beer was being sold openly in Chicago.

"You said a stein full of beer," was the way his expose was received here by patrons of the back-sidled "dry" cafes.

Remmers' demand for a congressional investigation did not worry the saloonkeepers here who haven't handled near-beer for two months.

"Drink hearty boys, they're just jealous of us," was the frequent remark from behind the mahogany.

Large frothing steins of from 4 to 6 per cent beer were still being sold Friday at from 25 to 30 cents a copy. The edition was large.

During Remmers' testimony, which was presented in the hearing on whether beer should be sold as medicine, he read a statement from August Busch, head of the Anheuser-Busch company, which said the policy of the company is "beer for all or beer for none."

The policy of Chicago is "beer for all."

STILLMAN "QUITS" IN DIVORCE SUIT?

New York.—James A. Stillman has "quit," it was reported here Friday.

Attorneys for the former president of the National City bank were said to have asked for postponement of the "secret" hearings in his divorce suit, which were to have been resumed next Thursday in Poughkeepsie.

The request was granted by Referee Daniel J. Gleason.

Gleason fixed the dates May 25 or May 26 tentatively for resumption of the case, on agreement of attorneys, but it is understood that on that date the case will be put over again and that this procedure will be continued indefinitely.

The action was interpreted by friends of Mrs. "Pett" Potter Stillman as meaning her husband had decided to drop the proceedings.

The same view was taken by other persons closely connected with the case.

If the reports are finally confirmed, it means that, so far as New York is concerned, the most sensational divorce case in modern American society has ended.

Railroad Employees Union Refuses to Handle Coal Mined by Nonunion Workers—Sympathy May Bring on Long Expected Industrial War.

By United Press Leased Wire
London.—British railwaymen Friday placed an embargo on "black leg" coal.

Executive officers of the union instructed their followers not to handle any coal loaded by nonunion labor.

The executive order followed independent action by the Firemen's and Engine-men's union which instructed its men not to handle non-union or foreign coal. The union announced it would use its strength to see that no member was "victimized" for obeying the order.

The decision again brought the nation face-to-face with the threat of a general strike.

Transport workers are expected to take similar action.

The joint action of the two big unions would prevent the unloading of nonunion coal at the docks, the transfer from ships of transportation along the rail lines.

Individual workers in the two unions previously refused to handle such coal but they were dismissed and their places being filled from the ranks of the thousands of unemployed.

The action of employers led to the declaration of an independent rail strike in Glasgow effective Friday night. Similar action was expected at Nottingham.

A clash over the question might easily precipitate a "triple alliance" strike in sympathy with the miners—the long predicted industrial war.

Radical members of the transport and railway unions hailed Friday's decision with joy. They have agitated for a strike since the miners went out for a strike since the miners went out.

Meanwhile with many industries crippled through lack of fuel and with the unemployed list growing daily the nation was prepared, if a general strike should develop. The machinery put in place when the triple alliance threatened, was ready for operation. All that remained was to call volunteer workmen to their posts and to restock the food and supply dumps.

By United Press Leased Wire
St. Louis, Mo.—The International Fur Exchange, the largest wholesale fur house in the United States, has issued a statement to its stockholders informing them that a deficit of $9,202,437.15 exists in the finances of the company.

The statement says that reorganization plans are being considered by large stockholders. The sudden and violent collapse in the spring of 1920 of the wholesale market in furs, was given as the reason for the condition of the company's business.

The statement announced the assets as $8,363,166.81 and the indebtedness as $18,065,604.06.

The notification is signed by Philip B. Foulke, president, by order of the board of directors.

Disarmament Vote Will Be A Test Of Leadership

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—A test of Republican leadership in the senate, which is expected to prove to President Harding that senate Republicans are standing almost solidly with him is due this week on the Borah naval disarmament proposal in connection with the navy appropriation bill.

Republican leaders are letting it be known unofficially Friday that they intend to make the vote on Borah's proposal "a matter of confidence" in their leadership.

They want to set to rest by this vote rumors often heard that the grip of Republican leadership on the rank and file of Republicans in the senate is slipping and at the same time disprove what they call "Democratic" cinchards regarding a "break" between Harding and Republican senators on foreign affairs.

All the odds at this time favor a victory for G. O. P. chiefs, who it appears certain will be able to defeat

PLAN MEATLESS DAYS TO BRING DOWN PRICES

Milwaukee.—Meatless days for the next two weeks, and possibly longer, are in store for families of Milwaukee women fighting high meat prices here.

A practical boycott for three days a week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday—will be declared at a mass-meeting this afternoon, under the auspices of the Women's Fair Price league, and if the plan is successful, will be continued.

Milwaukee women are up in arms over the meat prices and have determined to fight butchers with meatless days. Dearest, however, say the action would further boost the price.

RAILROADS DRIFT TO U. S. CONTROL

Washington.—Continuation of the present railroad situation means government control of the railroads, Senator Cummins, Iowa, declared Friday at the interstate commerce committee hearing on the transportation question.

"Unless some way is found of reducing expenses and increasing revenues, the national treasury will have to pay the deficits, which are growing under private operations," Cummins said, "and this would mean federal control."

Cummins also declared that the loss to the government as a result of federal control during the war might be $2,500,000,000. It is already estimated at $1,200,000,000 on the basis of claims paid and those in process of adjustment. If the railroads win their contentions on claims yet pending, the deficit will go to $2,500,000,000, Cummins said.

Personally he estimated that it would be $1,800,000,000 at least.

"This situation challenges the permanence of private operation and control of the roads," said Cummins.

VOLSTEAD SPIKES USE OF BEER AS MEDICINE

Washington.—The ruling of former Attorney General Palmer that beer may be prescribed as medicine will never become effective, Chairman Volstead of the house judiciary committee, declared Friday.

Should the new internal revenue commissioner try to put the "medicinal beer" ruling into effect, congress in a few days will jam through legislation prohibiting its prescription, Volstead predicted.

Volstead made these statements as he opened the second day of hearings on his supplement to the original Volstead law. One section of the supplement would knock out the medicinal beer ruling.

By United Press Leased Wire
Twin Falls, Idaho.—From the role of "Maud Miller" to that of an alleged feminine "blue beard," the career of Mrs. Mary E. Lewis, died after insuring his life in July of the same year.

50 DEATHS RESULT FROM RELIGIOUS WAR IN MEXICO

By United Press Leased Wire

PREACHER-ROBBER IS GIVEN 6-YEAR TERM

East St. Louis, Ill.—Rev. Guy Kyle was sentenced to six years imprisonment and fined $3,000 in federal court here Friday when he pleaded guilty of robbing the mails of $189,000.

Loren Williamson, partner in a garage business at Mount Vernon, Ill., was found guilty by a jury previously and given the same sentence.

RAILROADS DRIFT TO U. S. CONTROL

Washington.—Continuation of the present railroad situation means government control of the railroads, Senator Cummins, Iowa, declared Friday at the interstate commerce committee hearing on the transportation question.

"Unless some way is found of reducing expenses and increasing revenues, the national treasury will have to pay the deficits, which are growing under private operations," Cummins said, "and this would mean federal control."

Cummins also declared that the loss to the government as a result of federal control during the war might be $2,500,000,000. It is already estimated at $1,200,000

WITHHOLD LOANS; EXPECT DROP IN BUILDING COSTS

Sharp Reduction in Price of Homes Is Expected in a Few Months.

Believing that property values will drop 50 per cent before the year is over, the directors of the Appleton Building and Loan association have adopted a conservative policy in making loans for the present. Three new applications submitted at the meeting Thursday evening were held over for 30 days to see what the developments will be in the building and real estate markets. Two loans held over from the previous month were approved. It was pointed out by directors in close touch with conditions that lumber had dropped 40 per cent in price.

Houses that were bought for $5,000 will soon be selling for $3,000; and those at $2,500 for $1,200, one well-informed business man said. For this reason he cautioned the association against making loans based on values that might be inflated considerably within a few months.

A general revision of assessment values and a consequent lowering of taxes is expected to follow the slump in home values. Building prices also are expected to modify, it was said, making the building of more homes possible.

The clubs are to meet once a week for eight weeks to learn something useful and to have social times. The age of the members of the club is generally between 11 and 17. Hikes, picnics and parties will help to make the summer days happy for the girls. With some clubs, an hour of reading good books proves to be very popular as an occasional diversion from the regular study. Social service work of various kinds is encouraged such as the making of scrap books for orphans and sending flowers to the sick.

PERMANENT CLUB OF BUSINESS GIRLS

Organization of Business Women Council to Be Completed Next Week.

Business and professional women of Appleton are to form a permanent organization, it was decided at the business and professional women's supper Thursday evening in the First Methodist church at which about 200 were present. The club will be under the auspices of Appleton Women's club and will become a part of the large organization while retaining its own individuality. Miss Constance Johnson, recreational director of Appleton Women's club said Appleton had long felt the need of an organization of this nature and that the women's club would be glad to sponsor it.

The organization meeting will be held Wednesday evening in the First Methodist church after another supper. The business women's council will meet with Miss Johnson at 5:30 Monday evening at the women's club rooms when final plans will be made for the program for Wednesday.

Miss Arlyle Watson of Lawrence conservatory of Music, entertained with a charming reading after which Mrs. A. L. Roberts answered the questions which were left over from the question box of last week. As a parting word, Mrs. Roberts gave the girls four rules of happiness: happiness is inward and not outward; it does not come by direct seeking; happiness is not solitary, but social; happiness comes from developing the spiritual side of our natures.

Tables at the supper were beautifully decorated with white and lavender lilacs and every guest wore a flower in honor of mother.

H.S. Students Fall Victims To Poison Ivy

Three high school students are nursing poisoned fingers and faces as the result of examining some poison ivy sprays in botany class Thursday morning without knowing what they were.

Students are instructed to bring various kinds of plants to the classroom, where they are dissected and their parts studied. Miss Louise Lutz unwittingly picked some poison ivy plants and with Harry Leith and George Morris were analyzing the nature and structure of the leaves and stems. Not knowing the name of the specimen they asked Miss Margaret Ritchie, their instructor. Miss Ritchie identified the poisonous plants and removed them from the room with tweezers.

All three students had held the plants in their fingers and had touched the leaves to their faces as they tried to identify them by smell. Antidotes were applied immediately, and while the poison was causing small blotches and itching, there will be no effects of any consequence.

WILLIAM G. GROTH
Proprietor, Bicycle Shop
I grew up in my business. When I was about 12 years old I helped my father by cleaning bicycles. Every night after school I would go to work and clean a number of wheels. On Saturday I would clean as many as five or six tandem bicycles and fifteen to twenty singles.

It was at a time when renting bicycles was a fashion. The wheels would go out sometimes for an hour and sometimes for a whole day. It was my business to keep those wheels in shape.

I received 50 cents a week at the beginning and as I became older and did more and more in the repair room, my salary was raised.

LET CONTRACT FOR PHONE BUILDING

Addition to Present Structure to Be Completed in Four Months.

Work will be started at once on construction of an addition to the Wisconsin Telephone Co. building here following the award of the contract Thursday to the Walter W. Oeslein Co. of Milwaukee. It is expected the building will be ready for occupancy in about four months.

The new structure will adjoin the present building on the east and will have a frontage of 55 feet on Washington-st. and will be 46 feet deep. It is to be two stories in height and of the same architectural plan as the present building.

The addition will mean an enlargement of the switchboard rooms, installation of new offices and an establishment of larger and more adequate restrooms. When completed it will be one of the finest telephone buildings in the state.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR WISCONSIN

The question of reserving for public uses and for the benefit of the people large areas of Wisconsin territory naturally adopted to camping, fishing and outdoor life is receiving widespread attention. A number of projects are before the legislature proposing the purchase of land in the northern lake region, together with certain sections in the southern portion of the state. The idea is to make state parks of these lands, similar to the state park in Door County, primarily for the welfare of the people of Wisconsin and secondarily for the enjoyment of tourists who are attracted to Wisconsin in the summer by its favorable climate and its unsurpassed facilities for healthful and pleasurable outdoor life.

It is said that tourists spent something like $20,000,000 in Minnesota last year and $75,000,000 in the state of Michigan. We do not know what it amounts to in Wisconsin, but public spirited citizens who are seeking the establishment of the northern lakes park in Price county have estimated that Wisconsin received in 1920 but $10,000,000 for this class of business.

From a purely mercenary standpoint Wisconsin would do well to capitalize its resort resources in this public manner. Private resorts will take care of themselves, but there is an increasing number of tourists looking for camp life and the facilities that state parks would afford. The time is certain to come when Wisconsin will make reservations of this character and the sooner it does so the better. Investments in state parks would yield many times over their cost in commercial returns to say nothing of the social good they contribute. It will be a far sighted policy if the state makes appropriations for these parks while choice sites may be secured at a reasonable cost.

THE BETTER TIMES

When folks speak of "good old times" their minds run back to the decade between 1890 and 1900. They were the last years of the old America. In these years no one was especially worried about social and economic problems.

Life ran in a fairly smooth groove. Eggs sold for about 12 cents a dozen and butter for a quarter a pound. Millionaires were few. It seemed easier to get along then than now.

But if the increase of 450 per cent in the number of high schools in the United States since 1890 means anything, it means that we are better off than that generation. The tremendous increase of high schools must be interpreted as indicating a wider distribution of prosperity and a consequent desire on the part of parents to make the lives of their children richer than theirs were.

In the last generation the high school was to some extent a social luxury. Today it is the preparatory school of the worker's child and for his benefit the modern city high school has become a vocational training center.

In those days a workman could not afford high school for his children. Today a workman cannot afford not to send his children to high school.

Then many men liked to say that what was good enough for them, was good enough for their children. Today most men say nothing is too good for their children.

The good old soft nineties gave us cheap butter and eggs, but the harder 20th century has sharpened our vision for self-improvement and social betterment; has popularized higher education and, through education, has enlarged our needs. These needs cost us more and make us work harder than the simple needs of the easy nineties, but they are worth working for. These are the better times.

PROTECT THE ROADS

A bill is before the legislature for the regulation of motor traffic. We believe that everyone who stops to consider the rapid development of this kind of transportation realizes that its regulation is a matter of public importance. The bill before the senate undertakes primarily regulation for the purpose of protecting the highways. It divides roads into three classes, limiting the weight of the loads which may be carried over a particular class of highway. These limitations range from three and a half tons on the poorer roads to twelve tons on permanently built roads. They are of course designed to save the highways from wear and tear that would constitute an excessive depreciation from the standpoint of the taxpayers, or those whose money is invested in the roads. Whether these limitations are correct or not is a matter for engineering opinion, and assuming that they are correctly worked out for the proper protection of the roads the bill ought to be passed.

Motor trucks are rapidly increasing and within a comparatively short time will probably be the greatest wearing factor we will have to contend with in the maintenance and upkeep of our highways. Speed and heavy loading are the two factors which cause roads to go to pieces and shorten their lives. This is particularly true on every kind of road except concrete. We have reached the point in our development of the good roads system where the investment is running into millions of dollars for counties and tens of millions for the state. It is only common sense that we should have such regulation of traffic as will make these investments produce the maximum service. It is even more necessary to regulate motor truck transportation than railway transportation.

We should of course impose no burdens on motor truck traffic that will suppress its expansion, but nevertheless we should have due consideration for the roads themselves in the general purposes to which they were devoted. By surrounding motor transportation with such limitations and regulations as will protect our roads against unreasonable wear and tear we are only practicing that modern conservation which everyone recognizes is a public necessity.

"THE CLEANEST SPOT ON EARTH"

Fifteen years ago a well known Englishman who toured the United States was a close observer of conditions in the large cities which he visited. His parting words to the newspaper men just before his ship sailed for home were: "The city of Washington is the cleanest spot on earth."

All patriotic Americans are proud of our national capital. We grow enthusiastic over its beautiful buildings, its monuments, homes, and the general cleanliness which prevails all the time in almost every section of that city.

But today there are many cities and towns in America which are just as clean and sanitary as the city of Washington. They have been made so by the aggressive campaigns and an awakened civic spirit.

The discriminating man or woman who visits a dirty city for the first time is sure to see its disorderliness. There is nothing about unkempt streets, faded and run-down houses, or dirty alleys to attract a stranger. Therefore these visitors to a dirty city are most likely to refer to it as "the dirtiest place I ever saw."

How does Appleton measure up to this test? Is it a dirty or a clean city? Or is it clean part of the time and dirty part of the time? Undoubtedly there is room for improvement. Undoubtedly, too, a clean city is one of the best advertised cities.

TURKS SOUGHT TO GET VICTIMS' INSURANCE

New York.—Henry Morgenthau, American ambassador at Constantinople from 1913-16, tells a story of Talaat Pasha, who was recently murdered by an Armenian in Berlin.

Having massacred 700,000 Armenians, the Turkish government proposed to swell its exchequer by collecting the insurance money of their victims. "Talaat made to me," relates Morgenthau, "the most astonishing request I had ever heard. 'I wish,' Talaat said, 'that you would get the American life insurance companies to send in a complete list of their Armenian policy holders. They are practically all dead now, and have left no heirs to collect the money. It, of course, all reverts to the state, so the government is the beneficiary now.'"

BY OUR YORK CORRESPONDENT

York, S. C.—Set a thief to catch a thief but don't set one moonshiner to catch another moonshiner. Levi Edwards, moonshiner, was doing an eight months' sentence, following his conviction.

Prohibition officers decided Edwards would be the very man to guide them to the lairs of other moonshiners.

His shackles were removed, a good gun was put into his hands, and he was given instructions to trail ahead of the officers.

Edwards knew where the moonshiners were all right; but instead of reporting them to the officers he reported their approach.

Then Edwards ducked.

The prohibition sleuths have not found him yet.

TRY TO CRAWL OUT OF IT

A woman of forty-eight years was thin, nervous and unable to sleep (had she written it herself it would have served very well as a nostrum testimonial). She was abnormally conscious of the beating of her heart, and you know it is abnormal to be conscious that one's heart is beating. Yet she crawled out of it. Draw up your chairs, children, and let me tell you how she did it.

A lad aged thirty-two was greatly emaciated as a result of a prolonged attack of dyspepsia. He began to suffer with frequent paroxysms or seizures of distressing palpitation, the heart beating with extreme rapidity—tachycardia, to express it in our best medical class. The only way he could obtain relief from these attacks was by imitating the nervous woman—he, also, crawled out of it.

A man aged fifty-nine, 68 inches tall and weighing 185 pounds—which proves he had been trying to eat himself to death—had attacks of what he called "neuralgia of the heart," which his physician privately believed were rather of the nature of angina pectoris, a punishment which comes to those who do not know or care to leave how to live. This obese man discovered to his surprise that he could crawl out of his "neuralgia" seizures.

It seems that in spite of our great self-esteem we are still mere animals stalking about proudly and defiantly on our hind legs, and it behooves and benefits many of us to revert for at least a few minutes now and then to our primal posture and run about or around the house a few times on all fours. Pride, of the false variety, that is to say, false dignity, goeth before the indigestion.

Crawling on all fours, dog-fashion, is as simple as falling off a log. Crawling dachhund fashion is a little more difficult and perhaps a little more healthful (in this posture the elbows are spread wide and the chest and the thighs nearly perpendicular to the floor) than the dachhund crawl. In this last posture one walks on all fours, which means that the hips are high and the shoulders low. The monkey walk has proved especially beneficial for women with prolapse or displacements and other pelvic troubles and for the toning of the muscles and the restoration or conservation of the figure after confinement.

All these crawls are of real value and no joke. Better than any crawl, as an antidote to the ill-effects of our proud position—which is the gentle reaching and too numerous to mention—the habit of rolling yourself a few somersaults on the floor every morning, half a dozen or more, the knack being to start from your feet with a smile and to come up on your hands and feet still smiling.

Old fogies shouldn't attempt somersaults; they make senile old geezers see stars and have upsets and everything. I do not recommend them for persons psychologically over eight-six years of age.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Toilet of the Nasal Cavity

Our little boy aged nine seems to have a profuse nasal secretion more or less constantly. He has had his adenoids and tonsils removed. Is there anything we can do to alleviate the formation and accumulation of that secretion? (Mrs. F. R. H.)

ANSWER.—Carefully wash the nasal passages twice daily with some lukewarm alkaline Antiseptic Solution diluted with its own volume of water. Use a Devilbiss No. 18 atomizer. Have the bottle only half full, and direct the nozzle straight back as the boy sits erect. Teach him to permit the solution to reach all parts of the nose by throwing back his head while he holds his throat in the position of the "K" sound the word hike (in this position the throat is closed off and the solution cannot run down the throat); the head is then bent forward and the nose freely blown. The handkerchief or toilet paper being held below the nose, not against it. After a week of this follow the cleansing spray with a spray of Boulton's solution diluted with three times its own volume of water. This solution consists of:

Phenol..... 18 grains
Compound Tincture of Iodine..... 1 dram
Glycerine..... 11-2 ounces
Distilled water..... 2 ounces
This is to be warmed over a water bath to 100 F. in a tightly corked bottle until clear, then filtered. The nasal toilet outlined may be followed in many cases of persistent or chronic troubles of the nose associated with excessive discharge.

This Specialist's Obsession

I am a girl nineteen years old. I am five feet tall and weigh 94 pounds. Lately I have had a good many freckles. I tried—but it made my face a sight. What can be done for bow legs? I have to wear such long skirts. Can cross eyes be cured without an operation? Please tell me some good specialist to consult. (C.)

ANSWER.—I advise you not to go to any specialist, except with your family doctor's approval. The specialist proposition in this country is overplayed. It is getting so that it is hard to find a good physician for the specialists. The country sorely needs a few plain old-fashioned doctors.

MORE WORK FOR THE LANDLORD
Chicago.—And now they're jumping again on the generous, patient, kindhearted and long-suffering landlord.

They tell him he has to furnish screens for the windows in the houses of his tenants.

The Department of Health calls attention to the city ordinance providing for this in a public notice urging citizens to aid in fly fighting. Officials promise to enforce it.

All sympathizers with the kind-hearted and long-suffering landlords please raise their right hands.

Posting Congressmen

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—A new organization that is to help Congress serve the interests of the general public has been formed. It is called the People's Service, and is a national council composed of 70 Senators, Representatives, judges, editors, and other well known liberals.

This organization will attempt to give the general public—who are designated as the ordinary citizen and the ultimate consumer—the same advantages before Congress that business, labor, farmers, and other groups have. These groups are organized and have lobbies to present their arguments forcefully before congressional committees. Almost any information needed by them can be obtained instantly from their headquarters.

But when it comes to the public's side of a case, there is no well posted Representative shouting in the ear of Congress. Even when a Congressman has reason to think a bill will work hardship on the people as a whole, he has trouble in collecting sufficient facts to support his position. Senator La Follette said that he has spent 24 hours a day for weeks at a time, trying to get at the facts on the other side of some bill that was being pushed by a corporation.

The new group of men and women that aim to serve the people's interests claim that they are not starting a lobby, like the various organizations that boost the affairs of tradesmen, machinists, cotton growers, and the like. The institution they are founding is somewhat like a lobby in that it is a source of information for Congress. But unlike a lobby it represents no limited part of the population, but the public as a whole. It is for the benefit of any Congressman who wants information on the public's side of any case, and it is maintained by subscriptions of members, some of whom are Congressmen.

The new service organization explains that it cannot logically take a neutral position and furnish information on both sides of a question. There is really no need for this anyway, because almost any big bill has its supporters speaking for some special interest. The legislative service feels, therefore, that in taking the public's side it is only balancing the scale.

The national council of the People's Legislative Service is made up of men and women in all parts of the country who are interested in public welfare, as well as in that of some particular group. Thus, there are in the council the President of the Brotherhood of Boiler-makers and Iron Ship Builders, the President of the Farmers National Council, the General Secretary of the National Consumers' League, the President of the Alabama State Federation of Labor, the President of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, and many others representing important groups. These people are not in the council primarily as labor or farm representatives, however, but as members of the public.

The council has also in its membership such general social workers and thinkers as Jane Addams, Thorstein Veblen, Herbert Croly, Frederic C. Howe.

The attitude of the organization on any particular bill will be decided after conferences of the national council. Not all of the members of the Congress who are interested in the organization will agree with the stand taken on a bill. But those who do can get information, statistics, and help in collecting data, so that they

Adventures of the Twins

Oliver Roberts Barton

"Under The Bolo-Bush" Mr. and Mrs. Monkey stood looking at the two cocoanuts under the bolo-bush.

"Where's the nice white rice, Mr. Moon-Man?" called Mr. Monkey. Flippety-Flap now stepped into view from behind the round mirror, followed by the twins.

"Are you the Moon Man?" asked Mrs. Monkey in surprise. "You may call me what you wish," answered Flippety-Flap. "These are my friends."

"But where's the rice?" Flippety-Flap pointed to the cocoanuts with the holes in the ends. Mr. and Mrs. Monkey each grabbed a cocoanut and sniffed. "Great gold fish" chorried Mr. Monkey. "It's rice sure as anything!"

"Then he and Mrs. Monkey stuck their fists in quickly through the holes and grabbed a handful apiece. A great, big, large, round handful—all they could hold. But when they tried to pull their hands out all doubled up, 'n' all, they wouldn't come!"

"Leggo!" cried Mr. Monkey. "Leggo, yourself!" cried Mrs. Monkey. But neither of them could or would or did let go.

"What shall we do?" they begged the fairyman. Flippety-Flap smiled. Things were going exactly as he had planned and he was quick to answer. "Hold on tight. If you let go, the rice will likely get away. I've got a friend in a circus that—"

"What?" cried both monkeys in amazement. "A circus? We don't want to go back to the circus."

"Let me finish," said Flippety-Flap calmly. "A friend who has a big hammer and he can get your hands out in a jiffy so you can get the rice. Mr. and Mrs. Monkey were thoughtful. 'If we go can we have goldfish for lunch?' asked Mr. Monkey finally. 'And a mirror?' Mrs. Monkey said quickly.

"Certainly," nodded Flippety-Flap. "The Fairy Queen will see to that." "All right," agreed the monkeys. "Let's hurry!"

THE BOOK OF MARTHA

The Stabilizer of the Home

Martha Palmer came in and kept me from following up my notion that Ann knew a good deal about Bob's secret.

My hunch depressed me, but Martha's depression was as midnight to twilight compared to mine. After Ann had left us, I put the inevitable question:

"Why don't you divorce Evan?" Instead of replying, Martha handed me a lock of hair. I knew before I looked that it held a picture of little Lorie.

"Such a spite," I thought, "so weak, and yet the strongest possible bond between two repellant forces—a husband and a wife who no longer love each other! I'm answered," I said, returning the lock.

"Not altogether!" Martha replied. "Perhaps unhappy parents ought not to be sacrificed to the child. Perhaps they should part. If Evan were honestly in love with one woman, I suppose I would divorce him and let him marry her. There's none too much happiness in the world, and no reason whatever why three persons should be wretched if two can be happy. But Evan cheats all the girls he makes love to, and they cheat him! His one enduring love is for his son. And therefore it seems to me that I ought not to rob him of his boy. Evan ought to prove that he can be faithful to one trust, at least."

"Kingdoms may be overturned—but not fatherhood," I quoted. "Probably Evan ought to learn that."

"And surely Lorie will have a fuller, wider life with two parents than with one."

"Undoubtedly the child is the stabilizer of the home," I agreed. "But you—"

I stopped abruptly. I was confused by the thought of what Mother Lorimer had had to endure in her time.

Daddy Lorimer had lived by the double moral standard. He had used his tremendous will power in his business, and I thought that he must have exhausted it there, for he had no will left to master himself with.

His being ended, he honestly and sincerely appreciated a girl like Martha and a fine woman like his own wife. Evidently he had retained certain ideals of womanhood no matter where his sentimental vagaries had carried him.

From Daddy's history, I concluded that if Martha held on bravely to the duties of marriage as Mother Lorimer had done, her man might come through his temptations and come out of them at last, and be as virtuous and as respectable as Daddy Lorimer.

But was Martha's husband worth Martha's sacrifice? Worth the drain upon her nerves and patience and courage?

Or would reforming a rascal cost the reformer too much?

And why couldn't people reform themselves?

Most of them could, I felt sure, if they would live by Ann's French motto: Form the habit of taking no more heed of the desires stirring within us than we do of the flies buzzing around us.

NEW LONDON H. S. WILL GRADUATE A CLASS OF 35

Arrangements Are Made for Commencement—Dr. Evans to Be Speaker.

Special to Post-Crescent

New London.—New London people were highly pleased with the motion picture and vaudeville entertainment presented in grand opera house May 9 and 10, under auspices of the Girls club. The program was given before a packed house each night. The movie film entitled "Yes or No," starring Norma Talmadge, was put on at 7:15 and was repeated later in the evening. The vaudeville program which commenced at 8:45 was varied in nature and highly interesting. It opened with a little play entitled "The Land of Nod," the speaker of which was written and the music composed entirely by Miss Charlotte Stubbenvoll, kindergarten teacher in the south side school, who also designed the costumes and directed the production. The cast of characters was made up of kindergarten children. The musical numbers, including a vocal duet by Miss Bernice Swift and Mr. J. Wolters, and a vocal solo by Mr. Sheu with Mr. Wolters at the violin and Mrs. Ed. Ramm at the piano, were well rendered. The dance by Miss Charlotte Stubbenvoll and Theodore

GAME COMMITTEE FINISHES ITS WORK

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Madison, Wis.—The assembly committee on fish and game, of which Mark Catlin, Appleton, is chairman, is the first legislative committee of the 1921 session to complete its work. The committee held its final hearing Wednesday afternoon and in submitting its report to the house, Thursday morning stated that it had cleared up all matters before it.

The committee at its final session recommended for nonconurrence the senate bill amending the present law which provides that not more than two members of the conservation commission shall be members of the same political party. "We still have two Democrats in the assembly," said Chairman Catlin, "in discussing the action of the committee. Assemblyman Rydman, former Democratic mayor of Antigo, and he succeeded in convincing the committee that it would be poor policy to change the law."

If the assembly refuses to concur in the bill as recommended by the committee the question will again be raised as to the personnel of the conservation commission. Chairman Barber and Commissioner Harrington, the hold-over members of the commission were appointed by Gov. Philipp as Republicans while Commissioner Webster, recently appointed by Gov. Noyes, has long been recognized in his community. Delafield, as well rendered. The dance by Miss Charlotte Stubbenvoll and Theodore

The program closed with a song by two kindergarten girls.

Said Can't Be Done

"My experience with doctors and medicines caused me to lose faith in both, and when a friend told me that May's Wonderful Remedy would cure my stomach trouble I told him it 'can't be done.' However, he finally persuaded me to try it and to my surprise it did. All symptoms of acute indigestion and gas have disappeared." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. ## There is Strength in Every Tablet

One dose often helps commence to enrich your blood and revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves. Nourished iron is organic iron, like the iron in your blood, like the iron in your blood. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can walk or how far you can walk without being tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nourished Iron—three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and you will be surprised. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

SCHMIDT BOOKED TO PITCH SUNDAY

Kaukauna Completes Preparations for Opening Game of Ball Season.

Kaukauna—"Smokey" Schmidt and Harold Stegeman make up the battery for Kaukauna in the first game of the season against New London Sunday afternoon on the home grounds. The rest of the team will be made up by Manager Jake Miller. The local lineup will be something like it was at the end of last season and not like it started out.

The grounds are in shape for the battle and there is nothing to prevent it but a heavy rain.

Interest among the fans is growing as the big day approaches. The fact that the lineup has not yet been published is causing great curiosity as to what men will represent the Electric city in the league.

Bowl in Milwaukee

Most of the members of the Kaukauna Paper Co. who bowled in the Arcade tournament in Milwaukee, returned to the city Wednesday.

The team rolled a score of 2608. The men also took part in the singles and doubles. Smith and Hilgenberg hit the wood for 1135, the highest score made by the local men.

The team consists of some of the 1920 state champions. Smith, Hilgenberg, Peterson, Gantner and Minkebig.

Due to a misunderstanding there was not a very big turnout at the league meeting Wednesday evening. As a result the discussion of the advisability of taking over the management of the baseball team was postponed. A meeting has been called for Friday evening in the K. C. rooms and members of the league are expected to attend and voice their opinion on the proposed action.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR FLORIDA HOMESITES

Appleton Man Tells How Real Estate Dealers Dispose of New Plats.

"They purchase a tract of 40 or 50 acres, plat it with wide boulevards and winding streets, put in pavements, curbing, shrubbery and an excellent electric lighting system and then offer lots for sale. That is the way speculators do things in Florida," said J. B. VandeBogart, who with Mrs. VandeBogart has just returned from Lake Worth, near Palm Beach, where he spent the winter.

"As soon as they are ready to place the lots on the market they run free excursions from all the neighboring cities," said Mr. VandeBogart, "and even go so far as to serve free lunches. After getting prospects to visit the new tract and calling attention to the advantages of the various lots they place them on sale at auction and frequently take in from $200,000 to $300,000 on a sale. Everything is in readiness for the purchasers to go ahead and build their homes."

Mr. VandeBogart says that the temperature in winter at Palm Beach and Lake Worth is the highest of any place in Florida. "This is due," he said, "to the gulf stream coming in close to the coast. The water of the gulf stream has a temperature of about 72 degrees winter and summer and moves about four miles an hour. Vessels headed south avoid it, but those northbound make it a point to take advantage of it as it assists them on their way. It never gets very hot or very cold at Palm Beach and bathing is enjoyed the year round. We frequently capture sharks at Lake Worth but they are not of the man eating variety and no attention is paid to them by bathers. They quite often venture close to shore and frequently get caught in pools when the tide goes.

L. A. Wiese and W. H. Steffensen will place Outagamie county in the front ranks at the fourth annual Wisconsin Holstein Breeders' state sale, to be held at the state fair grounds in West Allis Tuesday, May 17. Mr. Steffensen is selling a daughter of the famous show bull Iowanna Sir Olhe. Both animals are in calf to high class sires. These and 62 additional Holsteins have been selected by the sales committee from 55 breeders, after inspecting about 200 herds. Desiring to maintain and spread the reputation of Wisconsin for the quality of its Holsteins, these men have consigned animals which could never be bought at private sale for the prices they will bring at the auction. On Monday preceding the sale the

GIRLS READY FOR ATHLETIC CONTEST

Track and Field Meet to Be Held in Jones Park by Girls' Club.

All members of Camp-Fire and Girl Scout troops of the recreation department of Appleton Women's club will take part in the field meet which will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Jones park if the weather is favorable and in the high school gymnasium if it is bad. The girls will meet at 1:30 at the club rooms before marching to the park.

The Camp-Fire troop winning the largest number of points will receive a pennant as a prize. Twenty-five points will be awarded the group which shows most interest in general and gives most attention to the business at hand.

Miss Adelaide McKee is the marshal of the day and will award the points. One large and one small girl will be entered in each of the events except the 50 yard dash. The individual events are the target throw with the indoor baseball from a 25 foot distance and basketball throw for distance, both events giving 15 points for first place, 10 points for second and 5 points for third.

The running broad jump with a 15 foot start, the hop-step jump and the 50 yard dash require more skill than the other events so 25 points is awarded to the girl winning first place, 15 points to the girl winning second and 10 to the one winning third. Only one entry from each group is allowed in the 50 yard dash.

Ten entries from each club are allowed in the group events which include the over and under relay, the leap frog relay, chariot race, circle relay and human hurdle. The group which wins in these group events wins 25 points.

Games for everyone will be played after the final events. Dodge ball followed by "sing" will include the day's program.

PREPARE CEMETERY FOR MEMORIAL DAY

St. John cemetery, town of Center, will be one of the most attractive spots on the countryside when Memorial day arrives. L. H. Stecker, caretaker, and several helpers have been mowing the lawns and terraces, fixing up flower beds and beautifying the place to such an extent that autoists passing along Mackville road, are expressing admiration for the tidy appearance of the country graveyard.

Other improvement also are in progress in the rural section. The parsonage of St. Peter church, town of Freedom, is being repainted. William Bailey, town of Grand Chute, also is redecorating his home. Joseph Brookman, Jr., town of Grand Chute, is building a new home on Little Chute road. The foundation is completed and carpenters are working on the superstructure.

DOUBLE HOLIDAYS GIVE MORE TIME FOR RESTING

Double holidays will be the rule again this year. Memorial day, May 30, comes on Monday which will make it possible for those who want to take a long automobile trip to leave here the previous Saturday afternoon without losing any time. July 4 also comes on Monday and similar conditions will again prevail. The first Monday of September is designated as Labor day, while Christmas and New Years this year come on Sunday, which means they will be observed the day following. Thanksgiving will be celebrated early, the day falling on Thursday, Nov. 24.

Tex Rickard, promoter of the Dempsey-Carpenter championship bout, turned the first "spade" of dirt as work on the big amphitheater at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, was started. It is such a big job—providing seats for upwards of 50,000 spectators—that a horse-drawn "spade" was used, as the picture shows.

FIVE LAWRENCE GIRLS WRITE IN LATIN TESTS

BUCHERT CASE BEFORE COMPENSATION BOARD

It will be up to the Wisconsin industrial commission to decide whether Alden Buchert was in the employ of his father, G. H. Buchert at the time the son was badly injured in an automobile accident between Appleton and New London a year ago. The father contends that the son was on duty and that the Wisconsin Mutual Liability company is liable for the injuries. A testimony was taken before the industrial commission in the case on Thursday.

CHERRY ORCHARDS WILL BE ATTRACTION SUNDAY

Four hundred thousand cherry trees in Door county will be in blossom next Sunday, according to word sent here by the Sturgeon Bay Chamber of Commerce. Many autoists have been waiting for this auspicious moment, intending to take the drive to Door county when the orchards are a mass of white. The trip is attractive to autoists, because Sturgeon Bay is on the main state highway to the north, with concrete pavements most of the way. Fully 10,000 people are expected to visit the orchards.

SPRAY ORCHARDS TO INSURE BIG CROP

Cold Weather in Fruit Belt of Western States Means Bigger Demand.

Owners of orchards and fruit trees of various kinds in this locality will experience a profitable year if they spray their trees and make an effort to obtain a large crop next fall. This "tip" has been issued from the office of the United States department of agriculture, following unexpected freezings in some of the largest fruit belts in the country.

It is said that apples, pears, peaches, plums and cherries in a large area east of the Rocky mountains have come close to destruction through frosts. Should the weather continue favorable in the north for about ten days the department believes the prospect of a profitable crop is excellent. This situation means a good demand for the fruit produced in Wisconsin and nearby states.

Spraying is necessary to a good yield, the department warns. Apple and pear orchards do the best if they are thoroughly sprayed with arsenate of lead and lime-sulphur solution at this time, thus combating the codling moth, apple and pear scab and other insect pests and fungous diseases. Bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead should be used as a spray in July. Suggestions for spraying are contained in bulletins issued by the department of agriculture, Washington.

Every barrel of apples which goes into the cull pile this year from lack of spraying may mean a serious money loss to the grower, it is said. Cherries and plums also will be in demand this year.

WILL PLANT CORN SOON IF BLACKBIRDS PERMIT

Corn planting is expected to start in the country next week. Most of the farmers have been busy for the last ten days spreading fertilizer over their corn lands, plowing and preparing the soil for planting.

One thing that puzzles farmers is how to protect their corn against blackbirds. At one place on the bank of the Fox river it is said that the birds follow the seeder and eat the kernels as fast as they are planted. Not satisfied with this, they dig beneath the soil when the corn shoots are above the ground and take the kernel, thus killing the plant. Treatment of the seed with coal tar and other chemicals is found to have little effect.

WOMEN MAKE $250 PROFIT IN WHITE ELEPHANT SALE

About $250 profit was made by the recreation department of Appleton Women's club at the rummage and white elephant sale Wednesday in Eagle hall. The doors were opened at 8:30 when a huge crowd had assembled which scarcely abated during the whole day. Before night the entire stock of clothing, shoes, furniture and knick-knacks was sold.

The sum of $30 was made on the food which was sold. People dropped in for lunch at all hours of the day. It was discovered that shoes and good clothing brought the greatest financial returns.

The department is already planning a similar sale for next year on a much larger scale. Members of the committee feel that the success of the undertaking is due in large measure to the untiring efforts of the committee of women which aided the girls by soliciting, marking and even selling the articles.

"George, you know my hobbies—golf and a good cigar! Let's have something that will 'stand up' well in a breeze."

"All right, sir; try Adlon!"

"It doesn't matter about the wind blowing across the links. Adlon stays lit and burns evenly. It's a firm, yet free-drawing cigar."

"There's real smoke-volume in Adlon. It has a rich, all-tobacco flavor, developed by a perfect blending of choice Havana filler and fine Sumatra wrapper tobaccos. Yes, Adlon is deliciously fragrant. You'll enjoy every puff."

"Remember the chap over at the club who made the hole in one last week?"

"I'll never forget him, George; he has talked about nothing else since."

"You'll notice, he always smokes Adlon. He's an Adlon 'fan'. Says Adlon helps his game. Won't tee off unless he has an Adlon in his mouth and a batch of Adlons in the pockets of his golf shirt."

"I endorse his choice of Adlon; and I can do so as a cigar expert!"

"Adlon satisfies the most critical taste. It took 500 tests of different tobaccos to create the Adlon blend. Adlon is different from any cigar you've ever smoked."

"From the first puff to the last it's a delightful, full-flavored, aromatic cigar you can enjoy anywhere. And mild; when you get down to the last 'draw' you're ready for another Adlon."

"Yes, sir; you can count on Adlon—every time!"

You can get Adlon—the best cigar you can buy—from any good dealer.

INVEST IN MORE THAN ONE FIRM, SPEAKER ADVISES

William Seyler Tells Audience the Fundamentals of Financial Success.

One of the first requirements for success in life is to save and the saver must then learn to invest his money wisely. Every person who will study the law of averages and will apply them in the management of his funds is bound to some day reach financial independence.

This advice was contained in address before a group of Appleton, Fond du Lac and Kaukauna people in the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening by William Seyler, Milwaukee, head of the William Seyler company. The speaker is visiting the city once a month to speak on wrong and right ways to invest money.

Mr. Seyler explained that he began a study 18 years ago to find out why some people earn well and others fail. He said many years were devoted by most people to educating themselves to earn a living. Some doctors spend more than 25 years preparing for their profession. They finish and begin earning money. Their next question is that of deciding what to do with their money. People have too little training in this important essential, Mr. Seyler said.

Urging that the first step is to save part of one's earnings, Mr. Seyler offered a plan based on the law of averages. He took $1,000 as an example and said that half this amount should be kept liquid; that is, invested in bonds, certificates or something readily converted into cash for emergencies. The other half should be divided into four equal parts and invested in four new and sound companies that already are paying dividends. Ninety-five per cent of the companies fail before they pay dividends, the speaker declared so the fact that a company pays dividends on its net profit is a good indication that the business is sound.

"You are more certain to make out well if you follow the principle of making safe investments. By spreading your investments over a greater number of companies you take advantage of the laws of averages. Under this plan you will have money in 16 different companies in four years. The law of averages decrees that 11 out of every 16 firms paying dividends have phenomenal success. You may have one or two failures, but you will have escaped the loss accruing if all your money had been invested in this particular firm," Mr. Seyler said.

It was further mentioned that the average person is wrongly educated on investment matters. The best companies are those with all common stock and none preferred. Companies that issue bonds at a low rate of interest or stock at a high dividend rate are the ones to choose. Their business methods usually are sound.

Mr. Seyler explained the difference between depositing money for rental and investing it for earning power. In the first case it is given over to the banker or corporation as a loan for which interest is paid. The latter transaction puts capital into a business, from which the stockholder realize a return according to what the company earns.

Quoting figures on mortality compiled by life insurance companies, the speaker showed that out of 100 healthy men at the age of 25, thirty-six will be dead before the age of 65. Of the 64 remaining one will be rich, four wealthy, five supporting themselves by labor and 54, or 84 per cent, will be dependent upon relatives, friends or charity. This condition ought to make people studious and thoughtful of the use to which their incomes are put, Mr. Seyler said.

There is always a market for "God-made" products, such as corn, wheat, iron, gold, crude oil and so on. Investments in companies owning such resources seldom bring losses, and are good ones to place money with.

Mr. Seyler said people considered his beliefs all theory, so he formed a company to prove his claims. The company went into the oil "business," not the oil "game," he said, buying flowing wells and never making wild attempts at expansion where there was only guess work. The companies have been in operation 18 months and have been highly successful.

The picture was taken at Highcliffe Castle, Hampshire, where the ex-kaiser stayed on his last visit to England. It is now the Selfridge country estate. ## "KID" HAS BIG IDEAS FOR A LITTLE CHAP

Charlie Chaplin's Co-Star Buys Motor for Mother and Razor for Dad.

By Marian Hale (Special to Post-Crescent)

New York—"I'm not going to stick at this game long," Jackie Coogan remarked as he sat in his suite in the Biltmore.

"The movies are all very well for children," said Charlie Chaplin's $2500-a-week co-star. "It suits their tender years; the movies are an almost childish art, aren't they?" This six-year-old inquired abruptly.

"Then I'll tell you, secretly," he continued. "I am not going to stay in comedy all the rest of my life. I intend to go in for the heavy. I wish to portray mental and physical anguish."

Pardon a Smile

The writer looked over at his mother as he spoke, and slowly the two winked at each other.

"How do you account for your phenomenal success, Jackie?" his mother asked, for the benefit of the reporter.

"I think my father is to blame; he has always let me copy his antics. It gets in the blood, and then the public begins to pick up its ears, and sooner or later you are 'discovered' and there you are."

"And just what are you going to do when you are 20, Jackie?"

"I'm going to sit back in a nice bungalow by the sea with Patsy Marks."

"Who might Patsy Marks be?" I inquired.

"She is my sweetheart," Jackie answered, "and I think you should marry only a girl you have known since the beginning, like me. We made our beginnings together, as it were, she is a little younger than I, but a bird. I am very given to buying her luxuries," he added.

This drew forth a laugh and Jackie got to his feet.

A Real Spender

"I tell you I'm a spender. I bought my mother a car and my father a razor and Patsy a pair of pink bloomers and a handbag, and all I got myself is three dollars. That is all my father gives me of my pay."

"But dear, who has a bank account in his own name?" Mrs. Coogan put in.

"Oh, I do, but I'll be so tired before I get to spend it," Jackie sighed.

"And what is your advice to little children who want to act?" Jackie considered.

"If you are a boy, it's important to know how to chew, smoke, spit and cry. But the real big piece of advice is, 'Watch Charlie Chaplin.'"

ASSEMBLY KILLS REFERENDUM BILL

No Opposition to Fixing Fee for "Prescriptions" at $1 Each.

By United Press Leased Wire Madison—The assembly Friday refused to adopt the Ruffing resolution providing for the initiative and referendum by a vote of 37 to 36. The senate at the same time postponed consideration of the Skogmo resolution on the same subject until next week.

The assembly advanced the bill limiting the price doctors may charge for liquor prescriptions to one dollar to engrossment without opposition. This bill was introduced by anti-prohibitionists as a joke. The Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league officers created a sensation by advocating its passage. The league officials see an opportunity to shut off liquor sales by making the writing of prescriptions unprofitable for doctors. The bill is to be amended in the senate by the dyes to limit the fee to 50 cents.

Governor Blaine vetoed a senate bill Friday allowing the humane society to place a course of study in bird life in the public schools. The governor said interference in the courses of study was inadvisable.

JURY FIXES $400 AS AMOUNT OF DAMAGES

The jury in the damage case of Cyril Wassenberg vs. Northwestern Railway Co., which rendered a verdict at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning after being out one hour, found the plaintiff had accepted compensation before the action was commenced and that it entitled to recovery at all his damages were assessed at $400. The case was submitted to the jury on a special verdict. Taking of testimony was completed late Thursday afternoon and the arguments to the jury were made at an evening session of court.

The case of George E. Kronschnabel vs. John and Mary VanBpps which concerns the lease of a farm went on trial shortly before noon and will be completed this evening.

The next case set for trial is that of Fred Lillge, Jr., and Henry Krueger, co-partners, vs. Fred E. and H. A. Schlitz, co-partners.

By narrowing the boulevard the city gained four feet of pavement at a place that is often badly congested with automobiles whenever the bridge is open.

MRS. NANCY WESCOTT, of Syracuse, N. Y., who declares Tanlac is the greatest medicine on earth. Says it built her up to where she is just brimful of new life and energy.

"I just think Tanlac is the greatest medicine on earth and I can never praise it enough for what it's done for me."

"For two years I was in a badly rundown condition. I had no appetite, and after every meal I would be in awful distress from indigestion and bloating. My nerves were on edge, and I could never get a good night's sleep. I felt tired and worn out all the time, was losing weight, and many times I was so weak I couldn't look after my housework. I just felt miserable."

"Tancal helped one of my friends so much that I began taking it and it has certainly built me up into splendid health. My appetite is so big I can hardly get enough to eat now, and I am never troubled a particle with bloating or indigestion. My nerves are as steady as clockwork, and I sleep like a child at night. I have recovered my strength and am just brimful of new life and energy. In fact, I feel better than I have in years. My gratitude towards Tanlac is unbounded."

The above statement was recently made by Mrs. Nancy Wescott, 121 Market St., Syracuse, N. Y.

HUGHES WILL MAKE ALLIES PAY DEBTS; HOROSCOPE SAYS SO

Washington Seerd Has Startled Capitol With Her Accurate Predictions.

By Lora Kelly
(Special to Post-Crescent)
Washington—Germany will pay her full war debt.
The allies will repay us principal and interest for all war loans.
Next September our relations with other nations will come to a climax, from which we will emerge with our colors flying.
The coming two years will be especially fortunate ones for the Harding administration.

These things are indicated in the horoscope of Secretary of State Hughes, cast by Madame Marcia, astrologer to official Washington.
Madame Marcia has started Washington officialdom by her accurate predictions.

Some Prophecies
One of her prophecies was that Mrs. Norman Galt would one day be mistress of the White House. Six years later Mrs. Galt became Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

Weeks before the Chicago convention Madame Marcia predicted the presidency for Senator Harding. She says the friendship of Mrs. Harding. "I am not a fortune teller," Marcia says. "I am a scientist."
She is the widow of a New York physician.

Her first prediction to attract attention was that of the acquittal of Roland B. Moineaux, twice condemned for murder in 1891.

Hughes' Horoscope
The position of the planets at the time of Secretary Hughes' birth, April 11, 1882, indicates he will wield powerful influence in the position he occupies, says Madame Marcia.
"His signs show ability to foresee clearly, and presage success in all affairs where impartial judgment is necessary," she continues.

"He is naturally very cautious."
"In regard to our financial relations with other nations, Secretary Hughes is well fitted to demand and compel payment from our war debtors. He will see to it we get full reparation. He will give no quarter where money is concerned."

"The planet Venus indicates his love of art, literature, beauty, music, painting—all the higher mental attributes. This would incline him to be free from vice and evil intent."

An Investigator
"Mercury makes him will to investigate any new thought or science."
"In the month of September he will reach his greatest prestige. Foreign relationships will come to a head at this time. The moon and Saturn will be in sextile to each other. This sign brings large responsibilities, but advancement and notable recognition as well."

JAPAN BLAMED FOR CHINA'S TROUBLES

Canton, China.—Sun Yat Sen, president of the Canton Chinese government, Saturday outlined his proposed policies in an exclusive interview with the United Press.
It was the first interview he has given.

"My first move after my inauguration on Thursday," he said, "will be to seek foreign recognition."

"As a legally constituted parliament my administration hopes to show the powers I am not a rebel but that Hsu Shin Chang, whose presidency is illegal, is the rebel."

"I will abolish military government and reestablish civil authority and will reduce to a minimum the army which now is considerably over one million."
"I will modernize China and start the building of railroads."
"I will restore China's position by denouncing Japan's 21 demands which still are the backbone of her policy."
"China's trouble during the last four years has been directly due to the Japanese militarists who aim to 'Koreanize' China."

New York—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is in business.
Around the corner from Broadway on W. 52nd street is a super-beautiful coffee room.
Golden letters on French panel windows announce that "deep, home-made apple pie, old-fashioned southern ice cream, and individual coffee can be had within."

And within, perched on a high teak-wood stool, sits Evelyn Nesbit—cashier and manager.
"From tragedy to sculpture, from pictures to the legitimate stage, and now to a specialty shop, unlike anything in America, has come Evelyn," she said whimsically when I called on her.

Solemn-eyed, radiant, this girl of 15 years' trouble, talked for half an hour with me.

"I won't speak about Jack Clifford."

REGULATION ONLY REMEDY FOR RENTS

Special to Post-Crescent
Washington—Early relief in present conditions can only come through regulation, according to William J. Spencer, secretary and treasurer of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

No appreciable results may be expected this year, Spencer says, through new construction; first, because even if building operations approached normal they could not begin to provide adequate housing to offset the existing shortage; second, because such building as is done will be at a continued high level of cost and on such buildings a high rental will be necessary to return a "fair and reasonable" rate on the investment.

One of the biggest factors requiring regulation, Spencer says, is the holding of residence properties out of rent in order to force people who must have homes to purchase them at the present high level of prices.

"In almost every city," Spencer says, "some banks and real estate cliques are working hand in glove to force the selling rather than the renting of residence property. This extends not only to dwellings, but to apartments."

"As 90 per cent of the houses and apartments in the United States were erected at the old level of costs existing before the war, and their sale is now sought on a basis of what it would cost to replace them at present prices, the tremendous profits may be imagined."

"It is this condition that makes some rent regulation necessary."

Stand on Wages
"Do you expect any appreciable reduction in building costs that will make possible a renewal of building operations?" Spencer was asked.
"I can't see where it is going to come," he replied. "Cement is down and lumber is off a little. All other construction items, including brick, are at high levels. As soon as building starts on any sizeable scale, these prices, in my judgment, will advance with the possible exception of cement."

"How about wages in the building trades? Will the break in costs come there?"
"It will not," Spencer said. "Labor is the cheapest item entering into building costs now. The lumber, brick and material men and also the contractors will have to make the break before labor."

and our divorce suit," she said. And then she began to talk about him. Only a few days ago Clifford, former jockey to King Edward, whom she is suing for divorce, broke into her apartment in search of "evidence." He is counter-suiting her. There was a tussle, a lot of noise—and Clifford departed.

"My whole heart is in this," she said slowly. "I am going to sell an apple pie that hasn't been duplicated since 1861. It will be very deep, very thin of crust and very much home-made."

"And I am going to sell an ice cream that no firm in the world has ever made. There will be no corn starch, no eggs in it. Just pure, thick cream."

"And I am going to sell the best coffee in the world."

AMERICAN LEGION ASKING FOR PROBE OF VALPARAISO U.

Ousted President Declares "Poor Man's Harvard" Is Hotbed of Bolshevism.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Valparaiso, Ind.—Federal investigation of Valparaiso University, the "poor man's Harvard," has been demanded by the American legion, following charges by Dr. Daniel Russell Hodgdon, ousted president, that the institution is "a hotbed of bolshevism."

Faculty members in a statement deny Dr. Hodgdon's charges. They say further they will put the school back on its old principles of economical operation, which won for it the name of "poor man's Harvard." They charge Dr. Hodgdon was not in sympathy with these.

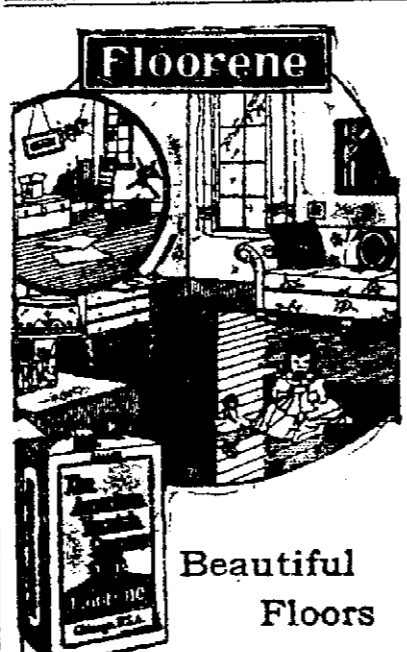

The trouble began last fall when Jack Pierce was elected president of the student council over the candidate favored by Dr. Hodgdon.

(Climax of Fight)

A few weeks ago Dr. Hodgdon tried to expel five students. The student council then presented a petition asking for the president's resignation. The petition said in part:

"He has continually violated the principles of the university and introduced impertinent philosophies which are diametrically opposed to the spirit and traditions of the institution."

TEXAS WHEAT CROP IS REPORTED ONLY "FAIR"

By United Press Leased Wire
Dallas, Tex.—With only a fair yield of wheat in sight in Texas this spring, first harvesting of the grain is expected to get under way about June 1 in the northern section of the state. No shortage of labor is anticipated as unemployment in the cities has caused many men to seek work on the farms.

Topeka, Kan.—Kansas may produce a bigger wheat crop than last year, according to E. C. Paxton, federal crop estimator for Kansas, who reports a possible yield of 138,659,000 bushels on 9,710,000 acres. Condition of the crop may first be given as 64 per cent. "But present conditions arouse no enthusiasm," he warned. Paxton estimated 8 per cent of the crop planted will not be harvested because of poor yields.

members asked for Dr. Hodgdon's resignation.

The president did resign, but exploded this bombshell:

"There has been fostered in the university, both by faculty and outsiders, Bolshevism, Communism and other cults, the practice of which is destructive to American ideals and principles."

FAVORABLE COMMENT ON FREE DICTIONARY

Distributing a new dictionary has brought this paper many complimentary remarks. One subscriber who presented coupons for a half dozen dictionaries for different employees and members of his family said he deemed it necessary that a dictionary should progress with the language just as a newspaper does. The world moves rapidly these days, and only the New Universities is abreast with today's growth of the language.

While readers are eager for the book on account of its being authoritative and complete, its absolute newness appeals to thousands. It has been many a long year since an actually new dictionary was given to the public. The New Universities Dictionary is new in all the word implications—new in contents, new in type, new in arrangements of helps to word study. Particularly is it new in making the study of today's English easy for young people who are so situated that they cannot attend schools and obtain individual instruction. Unaided, a young man or woman employed may learn the correct use of the English of modern business and society if they but follow the directions of the great university teachers whose articles on "Standard English," "Practical Syntax" (which means: How to make good sentences), "Punctuation" and "Etymology" appear, plainly written in simple English, in this book.

Why Scandals Are So Common Among The Very Rich

How the Distressing Revelations of the Stillman Divorce Case Follow Naturally from Rich Food, Self-Indulgence and Absence of the Husband

The Plain Little Adobe House in Texas Where Father Was Born.

Stillman's

By Dr. I. L. Nascher.

Of course wealth does not make happiness. But does great wealth distinctly make for unhappiness and hang like a cloud over the homes of the very rich threatening not only domestic peace but the fidelity and honor of husbands and wives?

The startling charges Banker James A. Stillman has recently made in his divorce action against his wife, Anne Urquhart Potter Stillman, reveal, if true, a ruined home which may be traced to the curse of too much money. The counter charges Mrs. Stillman makes against Mr. Stillman confirm this assertion.

If fascinating "Fifi" Potter had married a poor man and had had her home and her babies to fill her time and her mind instead of being left alone for weeks in the Canadian woods with an "Apollo Belvidere" half-breed guide, it is unlikely that the scandal which now clouds her good name and points suspicion at her youngest child would have ever arisen.

Why did this very attractive woman with everything worth while within her grasp go wrong, if her husband's charges are true? Why was Banker Stillman not satisfied with the companionship and charms of the woman he married?

Why should infidelity, as divorce statistics show, prevail to a greater extent proportionately among the wealthy than among the poor? The usual explanation for moral lapses, opportunity and propinquity, does not go to the basic cause, for the frequent association with some one of the opposite sex and the opportunity for intimate relations rarely result in attachment and infidelity among workmen and housewives. Opportunity and propinquity are like the matches that start the fire but a whole case of matches would be as harmless as a case of nails if there were no inflammable material that could be put on fire. The basic cause must be sought in the individual and his or her habits of life.

There are physical and moral differences between the rich and the poor, besides the difference in their mode of life, that make the former more susceptible to temptation and at the same time lessen their will power and self-restraint. Every physician knows this.

Well fed and well cared for from infancy, the rich grow up physically strong and usually attractive. Compare young shop workers as a class with college students of the same age, the mill workers in New England with the girls in Wellesley and the boys in Harvard, the young farm hands from up-State with the girls from Vassar and the boys from Cornell.

What was lost through improper feeding and insufficient food during the period of development cannot be made up later in life. The college-bred individual from a home of plenty grows up vigorous, full of animal spirits which find an outlet in athletics, sports and other fields of activity. The shop and farm workers develop certain muscles which are employed in their occupation, or no muscles at all if the occupation is sedentary or mental, while the dull routine of the shop or farm forces repression of animal spirits. They lack "pep," that all-around spirit that marks the energetic man and woman who are accustomed to diverse association and activities.

The food plays an important part in the development of animal spirits as well as in the physical development. Take the single item, sugar. An enormous amount is consumed in the form of sweets, the cost of which limits their use by the poor but not by the rich. Sugar is converted in the body into energy, and if taken in excess it is converted into fat. The excessive use of sweets by rich women is believed to be one of the main reasons why these women are usually plump and well developed and exhibit an amount of energy and activity far greater than one would expect to find in them.

Later in life, rich foods, and especially liquors, have a powerfully stimulating effect upon the animal passions. Alcohol in any form rouses the imagination, stimulates desires and weakens the control of the will over such desires. Various foods and drinks are popularly supposed to directly stimulate definite impulses. Such combinations as lobster salad, champagne and oysters, sherry and egg, have such effect ascribed to them. The effect is really produced through the imagination, although the constant use of rich foods will undoubtedly tend to stimulate desire. Add to these the seductive cocktail or cordial and the individual is in an unstable state in which the slightest stimulation, through the imagination or impressions produced through the eye or ear, arouse thoughts and desires.

Now let us consider a factor which is rarely, if ever, considered when we speak of the causes of divorce.

The rich, accustomed from early life to have every whim and wish gratified, have no occasion to practice self-restraint, and they therefore do not develop the power of will to do what they don't want to do or refrain from doing what they want to do. They have the will to do but not the will to don't.

The poor have been brought up to practice self-denial and self-restraint through necessity. They know that they cannot have everything they desire and, willingly or unwillingly, they must do without many things that they want. Self-denial and self-restraint become so thoroughly inculcated in them that they can practice them without serious discomfort. When the temptation to do what they know they ought not to do or cannot afford to do comes up, they can resist the temptation without any great strain upon their will.

But the rich, unaccustomed to resistance, or to restraint themselves in anything they desire, make little effort to do so when temptation faces them.

We say the woman is weak when she submits. It is true, but we must bear in mind that she was never taught to be strong-willed or resistant. She falls because the mode of life she leads favors an unstable, plastic disposition and she has not the will power or desire to resist when opportunity and propinquity place her in peril. She doesn't know how to resist.

Stress has been laid upon food, as that factor begins its insidious effect during childhood and continues with ever-increasing force as the individual grows older. The literature of the day, the drama, the dances and popular songs, all tend to stimulate. The great increase in divorce keeps pace with the increasing license and looseness in these general features of life.

In the drama the most profitable plays are those having suggestive titles such as refer to the bedroom or bath, suggestive situations and suggestive dialogue. In the silent drama suggestive and salacious situations have been so often depicted that in many States movements are on foot to establish censors. Some of the modern dances are vulgar and a few of the most popular were so obscene that they were forbidden. The tender and sentimental ballads of a generation ago are to-day considered insipid, while ribald songs, equivocally worded, are heard everywhere. This so-called liberal-minded spirit is responsible for the leniency with which society views marital offenses and for its welcome to the man and woman who have been found guilty of infidelity.

Some of these factors that arouse and stimulate affect the poor as well as the wealthy, but not to the same degree. Professor J. J. Walsh, in his book on "Religion and Health," says: "Fasting was always recognized as an extremely valuable adjunct in the control of the passions, and the poor, if they do not fast often, have often insufficient food. The bodily passions, especially those related to sex, are particularly likely to be influenced by overfeeding," and this applies with special force to the wealthy.

The poor have not the physical ground-work that favors sensuality, and the secondary stimuli, the salacious book and the popular and the obscene dance and song, do not affect them so strongly as they affect the other class. Better able to control their emotions through their ability to practice self-denial and self-restraint, they do not overlook the violation of marriage vows and the stigma of infidelity is permanent.

In determining the cause of disease the physician recognizes two factors—a susceptible individual and an exciting cause. Both must be present, the one acting upon the other, else there is no disease. The individual may be naturally susceptible or he may have acquired susceptibility, but if he is not susceptible the exciting cause will not affect him. In determining the cause of marital wrecks among the wealthy we must consider two similar factors, the susceptibility of the individual and the exciting cause. For the reasons stated, the rich are strongly susceptible, while the poor as a class are largely immune, their immunity consisting of a poor soil or constitution, and the cultivated will power to resist the invasion of temptation. The usually accepted exciting causes are opportunity and propinquity or close association, the two operating together.

In every one of the great divorce trials one prominent feature was brought out, namely, the frequent or prolonged separation of husband and wife. Wealthy men usually maintain two or three homes, a home in town where the husband's business or interests are located and a Summer home and sometimes also a Winter home in some other town, and usually a yacht.

Before marriage, wealthy young people have innumerable opportunities for diversion and time does not hang heavily on their hands. For a while after marriage they are satisfied with each other's company, but sooner or later they will feel the need of a change, a desire for the diversions to which they had been accustomed. The more active their lives had been, the more urgent does this desire for a change become.

There is not only a desire for a change in diversions, the active, energetic individual needs variety in his work, associations, home routine, food, in fact, in all his activities, otherwise they become monotonous and distasteful.

For the rich, a change is effected by the wife's sojourn at the country house or elsewhere where she has the opportunity for the diversions, associations or activities that will break the monotony and overcome the ennui of her life. If husband and wife take these vacations together there is little danger of a break in their relations. Constant association and mutual cares and interests create an ever increasing attachment, and it is just this constant association and partnership of the workman and his wife and family that help make their married life happy and permanent. They, too, demand an occasional change from the dull monotonous routine of shop and home life, but when they take a vacation they go together. Separation even for a short period is rare. Another thing to be remembered is the complete occupation of the time of the workman and the housewife.

They work all day and have no time for frivolous thoughts. The wife is engaged in her household duties, which include the preparation of the husband's meals and, perhaps, the care of the children. All her efforts are devoted to her husband and children and she has no time and no thought for any one else. The husband likewise feels that his efforts are primarily to provide for wife and children, and he has little time to think of other women. He comes home tired, glad to be home and happy with the companionship of his family.

But the wealthy woman has no household worries, the care of the home and children, if there are any, are left to others and her mind does not constantly revert to her husband. She knows his material wants will not be neglected if she is not at home, and they do not need each other except for companionship. It is therefore a simple matter for her to go away for a few days when social duties call upon her, or when time hangs heavily on her hands and she feels that she needs a change.

Absence makes the heart grow fonder in books, but in real life frequent or prolonged absence breeds indifference. Husband and wife become accustomed to each other's absence, the longing for each other's companionship slackens and often things occur that destroy it altogether.

The husband, separated from his wife even for a short time, finds home awfully lonesome and empty and he will go to the club or seek some other lonely soul with whom he can discuss the weather and other things. And if that lonely soul possesses charms and attractions that he did not find in his wife or if she can give the affection that he longs for, but his wife is not present to give, it will not be long before she will take the place in his affection and companionship that belongs to his lawful spouse.

Separation affects the wife as it does the husband. Women crave the companionship of men as strongly as men crave the companionship of women, and the wife finds some man among her friends whose companionship would be agreeable to her. There is no thought in her mind of anything beyond purely platonic relations. She does not realize that her mode of life from childhood make it impossible for her to maintain such relations indefinitely and that she, perhaps unwittingly, betrays her susceptible nature and her inability to maintain self-restraint, to the trained sense of the world-wise man.

She knows right from wrong, she knows her moral obligations to her husband and is resolved to remain faithful to him. But her very nature craves admiration of her physical self. She wants the man whose intellectual and social companionship she has found so agreeable, and to whom she had become attached through close association, to desire her physically, yet respect her resolution to maintain her honor.

It is a common trait among women, this playing with fire, believing they are fireproof or that they can extinguish the fire before harm comes to them.

And then often happens what she ought to have known was likely to.

Wife has tested her power of physical attraction and the test has been successful. But she blames him for his lack of resistance and blames herself more for encouraging him and for permitting her physical desires to overcome her moral scruples. She does not know that her failure to resist her inclinations was due to the fact that she did not know how to resist. She was never obliged to practice self-restraint and self-denial, and she could sooner subdue her conscience than her will. It may have been his game from the start.

There are wealthy men in society who have nothing to do and who spend their time hunting women. They know how to bait traps and what particular kind of bait, to use in each particular case. They know the general characteristics of the class of women whom they pursue, and they know that if they are strong, virile, physically attractive, gentle in manner and intelligent in speech, everything is in their favor except the woman's moral scruples. To wear these down slowly by deprecating them in the course of long, close association, or to break them down rapidly by cave man's stuff, to overcome them by sympathetic pleading, to dull conscience by drinks or stifle it by threats, is a problem that confronts the wealthy hunter of woman's respectability in the selection of his bait. And the woman, not half as foolish as she is unfortunate, falls a victim to her faulty breeding which made her susceptible, and to the opportunity and propinquity which left the opening for the final tragedy. "Your husband will never know; and, anyway, he is no better than he ought to be," is the subtle argument. This is often the last match in the box, but it does the work.

Mrs. James A. Stillman,

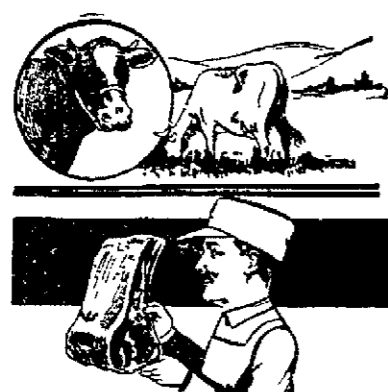

Mrs. James Brown Potter, the Divorced Mother of Banker Stillman's Accused Wife.

If Mrs. Stillman had been a working-man's wife instead of the idle wife of the president of the biggest bank in New York it is hardly likely that the parentage of her baby boy would be now challenged.

MOTHERS HONORED WITH IMPRESSIVE SERVICE IN CHAPEL

Splendid Tribute Is Paid at Evangelistic Meeting Thursday Night.

Tonight
7:30. Final great "Double Cross" service, entitled, "The Triumph of The Cross."

Saturday
7:30 p. m., Sacred Concert.

Sunday
11 a. m., Union Evangelistic service.
8 p. m., Men's Meeting in Lawrence chapel. Dr. J. H. McCombe will speak on "The Unpardonable Sin."

3 p. m., Women's meeting in the First Methodist church. Mrs. Mc-Combe will speak on "And great was the fall thereof."

6:30 p. m., Union Young People's meeting in Presbyterian church.
7:30 p. m., Final great meeting in Lawrence chapel.

The most wonderful service of the McCombe-Chase campaign was held in Lawrence Memorial chapel Thursday night, when Mother's day was observed before a magnificent audience.
The platform had been beautifully decorated in green and white, beautiful spring blossoms being used in profusion and the word "Mother" in large letters, hung above the choir.
A large delegation of older mothers had seats of honor in the front of the chapel. The Oxford club and the business women also had special reservations and were given recognition in the opening part of the service. One of the most interesting touches in connection with the service thus far came when Mrs. Mc-Combe addressed the aged mothers and asked their ages. More than a score arose to indicate that they were 75 years old or over. Over a dozen were 80 or past, and as the numbers increased beyond eighty and vigorous looking women continued standing the interest of the audience grew intense.

It finally developed that Mrs. E. B.
Clark, 83, was the oldest. Mrs. Anna Diener and Mrs. Oelke, the latter living at 637 Oneida-st., each 84, took second honors. The Rev. A. L. Mc-Millan presented bouquets of flowers to the oldest mothers.

Dr. McCombe introduced a feature into the program which will never be forgotten in Appleton. He asked the audience to form "snow balls" by gathering up the corners of their handkerchiefs and wave a "ball salute" in honor of their mothers.
After the singing of a duet, "Memories of Mother", by Dr. McCombe and Mr. Chase and "No Room For Jesus" had been sung by Mrs. Roberts and the chorus Dr. McCombe preached an impressive sermon based on Acts 27: 10, 21. He said in part:

"Saul was one of the most conscientious sinners in the world. On the Damascus road he was struck to the ground. A worldly fall often precedes a spiritual uplift. Many men have an appreciation of the Christ who do not accept him. Some men haven't the back-bone. We find Saul, now Paul, trying to undo what he had done and it takes a brave man to do that."

"Paul was let down in a basket to escape his enemies. Thank God for the men who made the basket and the rope. If the rope had broken and Paul had been killed Lawrence chapel would not be here. If you are doing your work and doing it honestly you are a workman of God just as surely as the preacher or the evangelist."

"So Paul pressed on his way. He was true to himself and you must be.
One splendid, royal man will give more character to a country than all its produce for a hundred years. Our temptation is to put gold above God.
Mammon above manhood. Paul, with his earning powers gone, had still his royal manhood. God does not want the stem of your life, but the flower with all its fragrance. Your best is none too good for Jesus. I am glad that the majority of the world's great business men are out and out for Christ."

"When Jesus drove the evil spirits out of the man in Gadara and the possessed swine rushed into the sea and were drowned, some folks said,
'Who is going to pay for the swine?'
It is too expensive, having you around. And Jesus left Gadara and we do not find it recorded that He ever returned there again. If it is too expensive for you to give up your sin, say so; Jesus will depart, but he may never return again."

"We have put on a varied program night after night that we might find a way up some avenue of your life to surrender to God. This night of all nights the Holy Spirit uses the influence of mother's memory to lead you to Christ, and mother's prayer will be answered."

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wolters of Janesville are guests of relatives in the city.

CIVIL WAR 'VET' HAPPY AS LARK

"You can say for me that this Ko-sak is the only medicine that ever tried my case and I guess I've tried them all," said Edward Richards, aged 78 years, a Civil War veteran, living at 49th and Beloit road, Milwaukee, Monday.

"For years I had been afflicted with chronic constipation. I have taken laxatives galore but not until Kosak got right down to the seat of my trouble, did I get any permanent results. Now my bowels are regular.
Of late my lower limbs have been so weak I could hardly walk. Kosak restored my strength, energy and vigor.
I now eat heartily and my food digests without forming gas as of old. I'm in better spirits now and can walk so much better." Sold only by Schlichts Drug.

CITY PLANNING IS MAJOR OBJECTIVE

Chamber of Commerce to Concentrate on Effective Plan for Appleton.

City planning will be the major objective of the chamber of commerce for the coming year, following a decision by the board of directors at the bi-weekly meeting in the French room of the Sherman house Thursday evening. Possible activities for the coming year were discussed at some length and it was decided that all other constructive work hinged on an efficient and effective city plan.

City planning was one of the planks in last year's platform. Much consideration was given to the subject.

Building Block Plant
Appleton's newest industry is a company for the manufacture of "cast stone" building blocks which has started operations in a building on Mead-st., near the broom factory.
Edward L. Vandenberg is head of the company which also has a plant at Kaukauna. About 600 blocks will be made daily as soon as the plant gets well started.

partially through public speakers. The community welfare had the matter in hand, made a deep study and collected much data. It is felt that much of the preliminary work is out of the way, the city planning idea is becoming better known to the members of the chamber and the public, and that conditions are quite favorable for putting this project across.
